Incidents Before and After the Murder

The Court met at nine o'clock yesterday morning. The following is the testimony Ori Carr sulled.—Live in Cleveland. I was at Bedford when Miss Parsons was shot. Met Dr. Hughes when he and Russell came to my carriage on Bank street, between nine and ten P. M., the night before Tamzen was shot. They called me "Bag," a nickname. Reasell introduced me to Hughes, and he naked me what I'd charge to go to Bedford. I told him ten dollars. Russell has a saloon under Hughes' old office, in the same block, on Ontario, between Prospect and High street, on the west side of the street. I drove to Russell's saloon, left my team on the opposite side of the street, and went over to Hughes' office to see if he was feady; then they got into the carriage and I drove to several houses to get some women to go with them, but did not succeed. Then Hughes and to Russell that he knew where to go, and ordered me to drive out Kinsman street. Went to Newburgh and stopped at the hotel, and got a glass of beer. We drove on, Hughes directing the road, about a mile and a half when Hughes Hugh TESTIMONY OF MR. CARR. 9:55 B:50 9:30 9:20 9:10 5:00 Designated Depository for all Public Honies.

barn. Rughes said they wanted to get up by six o'clock, and start away by seven. I get up at six o'clock, but didn't see Hughes or Russell, but they came down about seven o'clock, after being called. I got out my team and they got into the carriage. Hughes directed me to drive on to the Cleveland road. He stopped me after going a few rods and sent me to till a man standing at a hour. Then we drove on to the Plank Road House, and in about a mile saw two women coming along, with tin pails in their hands.

Told Hughes I guessed they were the folks he wanted to see. He stopped me when we met them, and called, "Miss Parsons! Miss Parsons!" Mrs. Parsons turned around and minutes and then got out and followed them, they walking as fast as they could, he walking fast too, and coming up with them, when the old lady motioned her hand to him. When he got up to them they slack-ened their pace and went on slowly till a man overtook them with a wagon. Could the old lady motioning her hand toward Hughes, as if she was talking loud to him, he being some ten feet from the wagon, but coming nearer, The old lady got into the wagon. Hughes approached the girl, who stood near the wagon, and talked with her a minute, and she then got into the wagon. Hughes put his hand on her and talked to construction near Governor Wood's old residence. The result was that he fell off, and was precipitated headforemost into the ra"Drive on?" I healtated, and heard some one say that Hughes and shot somebody. I went back to the Fountein House and told Russell, who said, "Let's go and see." Drove down towerd the place where F the crowd was. Russell did not get into the carriage; saw Hughes coming along with a man holding on his arm.

I stopped my carriage; Hughes shock the man off his arm, took out a revolver, away it around, and said, "Don't another
